We use the following different kinds of personal information about you:

- Personal details such as your full name, current and previous addresses, nationality, length of residency in the UK, date of birth and estimated retirement age, telephone numbers, e-mail addresses and passport, driving licence or National Insurance details;

Where we obtain your data from

Where your mortgage has been transferred to us from another lender, we have obtained your personal and mortgage loan data from that lender.

Much of the personal data we collect will be provided directly by you when you apply for our products and services or when you communicate with us during the course of your relationship with us. Where you contact us by telephone, calls may be recorded for training, quality assurance and regulatory record keeping purposes. We will also generate payment and transaction data as a function of administering your loan.

Where you have taken out a loan jointly with another person, we may have obtained your personal information from a co-borrower. Similarly, where you have authorised a third party to transact on your account, we may obtain your personal information from such a third party. If you have not authorised the relevant co-borrower or third party to provide your personal information to us, please let us know as soon as possible.

We sometimes also obtain data from the following third parties, with whom we work:

- Asset managers, field agents and Law of Property receivers;
- Our Solicitors;
- Credit Reference Agencies;
- Fraud prevention agencies; and
- Law enforcement agencies or government agencies.

In addition, we may also collect information about you which can be obtained via open data sources and public records (e.g. the electoral register and information openly available via the internet), although we will only do this where it is necessary for the performance of the mortgage contract (e.g. to help us trace you where you have moved house) or where we have a legitimate interest in doing so to enable us to administer your loan, establish the value and condition of our mortgage security or to collect debts which we are owed. See below under the section “How the law protects you” regarding the grounds on which we use your data.

How we use your data

We use your personal information in the following ways:

- to deliver our products and services to you and manage our business relationship with you;
- to assess a credit related transaction (such as an application for a new party to be added to the loan of an existing customer, or an application to vary our security);
- to provide advice to you (where applicable);
- to identify you when you contact us;
- to manage your payments;
- to administer your account (including managing fees, charges, interest and other transactions on the account; and collecting payments which have become due. Payment collection may involve reviewing your account/personal data and contacting you to arrange payment or to discuss your situation);
- to detect, report, and prevent money laundering and financial crime;
- to obey laws and regulations which apply to us;
- to respond to enquiries and complaints which you make;
- to perform training, quality assurance and audit activity;
- to contact you where we need to inform you of changes to the way in which we administer your account, or to remind you of issues relating to the account;
- to meet contractual obligations which we have to third parties in connection with the administration of your account;
- to manage our business in an efficient and proper manner, including the management of our financial position, our resources, the risks to which we are exposed and the way in which we arrange our internal operations;
- to undertake customer research, modelling, statistical analysis and trend analysis; and
- to provide you with relevant marketing information regarding our products and services.

There are further details below regarding situations where we share your personal data with a person or company outside the Advantage Group.

How the law protects you

The law says that we may only use your personal data where we have a lawful basis for doing so. We use your data on the following bases:

- because it is necessary to enter into, manage, perform and fulfil our contract with you (or to carry out, at your request, steps prior to entering into a contract with you). This ground (“the contractual ground”) applies to most of the ways in which we use your personal data;
- because you have consented to a specific use of your data. This applies in relation to any “special categories” of data which we collect from you (“special category” data is sensitive information relating to matters such as health issues, which are given special protection under the law). It can also apply when we send you marketing material with your consent and this is not sent for another reason, such as to fulfil our contract with you, or because we have a ‘legitimate interest’ (see below). This also applies where you provide consent for your data to be passed to selected third parties to provide services to you (such as independent mortgage advice);
- because it is necessary to comply with a legal obligation. This applies (in addition to the contractual ground) to circumstances where we disclose your information to a public body (such as the police) or a private person (such as a Trustee in Bankruptcy) who is empowered to demand that we provide it. It also applies (in addition to the contractual ground) to our identity verification checks and account monitoring activity (including call recording), which is needed in order to comply with financial crime legislation and in order to meet financial regulation;
- because it is necessary for the purposes of our own legitimate interests. This applies in addition to the contractual ground to many of the ways in which we use your data. It also applies to ‘higher level’ activities which are not strictly necessary to the performance of our contract with you, such as reviews, audits, analysis and reports (including the production of financial and statistical information) which are undertaken as part of our legitimate interest in arranging the sound internal management and governance of our business. We might have a legitimate interest to send you marketing material where we identify a business or commercial reason to do so and we believe it does not conflict unfairly with your own interests. It also applies to circumstances where we disclose your data to:
 - a third party (such a regulator or joint borrower) because we need to do so to defend our rights or standing;
 - an investor (who has funded our acquisition of your loan, in accordance with our legitimate interest of financing our business, managing our risks and offering a ‘legal title holder’ service to clients);
 - a company to whom an investor has outsourced delivery of services to provide insight of their investment (e.g. auditing);
 - a credit reference agency (in accordance with our legitimate interest in maintaining membership of the credit reporting community);
 - a company to whom we have outsourced the delivery of some or all of our services (in accordance with our legitimate interest in managing our business efficiently);
 - our auditors/accountants; or
 - anyone who takes, or is considering taking, a transfer, assignment, charge or other disposal of all or part of our interest in your mortgage, or who takes, or is considering taking, a transfer of all or some of our obligations under the mortgage. This is in accordance with our legitimate interest in complying with contractual obligations which we owe to investors who have funded our acquisition of your loan and who are seeking to transfer their investment; and in accordance with our wider legitimate interest in financing our business, managing our risks and offering a ‘legal title holder’ service to clients.

Third parties with whom we share your data

We may share your data with the following recipients:

- Companies to whom we outsource the delivery of some or all of our services;
- Investors (who have funded our acquisition of your loan);
- Companies who our investors have outsourced delivery of their services;

- Agents acting on our behalf to assist in managing the account or collecting money owed (e.g. field agents, tracing agents, property valuers, Law of Property receivers (who are appointed by us but legally act as your agent) and asset managers);

- Public bodies (such as law enforcement agencies); and private persons (such as a Trustee in Bankruptcy) who are empowered at law to require us to provide information;
- Joint borrowers on your account and third parties with whom you have authorised us to communicate;

Transfers outside of the European Economic Area ('EEA')

Where we send your personal data outside of the EEA, including where we may send your personal data to investors (as described above) we will always ensure adequate measures are in place to safeguard it and to ensure you can exercise your rights effectively.

Where we do so, it is possible that they, or firms acting on their behalf, may transmit the data onwards to an entity outside of the EEA (for example, a member of their group based outside of the EEA).

Retention periods

All information will be retained for as long as you are a customer of Rosinca Mortgages.

When you are no longer a customer we will keep your data only for as long as it is needed to respond to any questions or complaints, to demonstrate that we have treated you fairly and to comply with the legal and regulatory requirements to which we are subject. This usually means we will keep your data for up to 7 years after your mortgage account is closed; however, we may hold your data for longer if we cannot delete this for legal or regulatory purposes.

Where you fail to provide personal data which we have requested

If you fail to provide all of the information which we ask for as part of an application for credit (for example, by way of a 'change of parties' application or an application to vary to your loan contract), we will usually discontinue your application, although there may be cases in which we are willing to make an exception.

- be informed about the processing of your personal data;

- withdraw your consent to the use of your personal data, where that use is undertaken on the basis of consent (see above);

- upon applying to us in writing or by telephone, to obtain personal data held by us about you.

Please note that we may ask you to provide a form of identification verification before we can give effect to any such request made by you.

To exercise one or more of these rights, wish to contact us in respect of our processing of your personal data or if you have a complaint about our data processing activities please write to:

Rosinca Mortgages,

Skipton,
BD23 9FB

or call 0370 707 1151, Monday to Friday 8am – 6pm.
